Learning

Opportunities

What is a learning opportunity?

For our Adult Learners, the first point of access, our main goal is to help build new skills.

We do so by offering classes, working one-on-one with a tutor, in a non-threatening, inclusive and flexible learning environment, most often in Literacy, Numeracy, English Language Learning or Digital Skills. We also offer workshops and information sessions for adults throughout the year. But that's not all.

We have a wide variety of family programs to support the parent/caregiver and their families for positive parenting, and discipline as well as supporting their role for fostering social and emotional growth for their child.

We appreciate that each adult who comes to us with a desire to improve their skills does so with a lifetime of what success means to them.

Skills for Learning – Life Skills

Learning opportunities that support the development of the skills and habits of learning that support learners to build confidence, develop an identity as a learner, advocate for themselves, and engage in foundational and other learning.

Numeracy

The ability to use, interpret and communicate mathematical information and ideas. The Primary Intended Learning Opportunity in this category should be using numbers and thinking in quantitative terms to complete tasks, up to and including pre-GED level.

Adult Literacy

Adult Literacy Learners are fluent in either official language, and generally speak, were born and raised in Canada. They may be employed, whether they have a high school education or not. Adult literacy learners are looking for a way to improve their lives; however, they may not necessarily recognize the skills required to do so. They may have several well-developed skills for success such as verbal or non-verbal communication skills. But they may need to improve their reading and/or writing.
